Program: 16th Arab-German Health Forum

The Arab world and Germany maintain a strong economic relationship, with thriving bilateral trade across key sectors such as machinery, automotive, health, infrastructure, logistics, transport, and energy. Bilateral trade reached 62.1 billion euros in 2023, marking a notable 20% increase from 2022.

Germany is renowned for its exceptional healthcare industry, characterized by a high-quality healthcare system. It is a global leader in advanced medical technology the pharmaceutical sector. It boasts a robust infrastructure with a network of hospitals and research institutions, driving continuous medical innovation. The country's strong export market and collaborative ecosystem foster growth and offer numerous opportunities for international partnerships, particularly with Arab countries. In 2023, healthcare spending in Germany accounted for about 12.7% of its GDP.

The Arab-German Health Forum is central to our efforts to strengthen ties and forge new cooperation avenues between the Arab countries and Germany. This year's 16th Arab-German Health Forum entitled "Pioneering Health: Advancing Collaborative Innovations in Arab-German Health Cooperation" will serve as a pivotal event for fostering robust business relationships and health collaborations among professionals from the Arab world and Germany. Health industry experts will explore cutting-edge topics including Arab-German Health Collaborations, Partnerships in Pharma and Biotech, Trends in Medical Tourism and Health Innovation Ecosystems.

This forum offers an unparalleled opportunity for knowledge exchange and networking, shaping the future of healthcare through collaborative innovation.
